

THE BRITISH MUSEUM

Diploma in Asian Art

The British Museum is one of the most prestigious museums in the world, attracting over 6 million visitors a year. It provides a unique doorway to the understanding of diverse cultures of the world through time.

This course provides an opportunity for object-led study from the Museum's incomparable collections, taught by distinguished academics and curators.

THE BRITISH MUSEUM

A postgraduate diploma at The British Museum taught by leading international academics and museum curators.

The course provides the student with an in-depth study of the classical and decorative arts of Asia, setting these cultures in their historical and religious contexts. The lecture programme is supported by field trips to other museums, galleries and private collections.

Students successfully completing any three modules, selected from the classical and decorative arts of the Islamic world, India, China, Japan & Korea or South East Asia, will be awarded a University accredited Postgraduate Diploma in Asian Art.

The Classical and Decorative Arts of the Islamic World
April-July

The Classical and Decorative Arts of India
September-December

The Classical and Decorative Arts of China
January-March

The Classical and Decorative Arts of Japan & Korea
April-July

The Classical and Decorative Arts of South East Asia
January-March

Further details from: Dr Heather Elgood,
Education Department, The British Museum,
Great Russell Street, London WC1B 3DG

Telephone 020 7323 8144
Email helgood@thebritishmuseum.ac.uk
www.thebritishmuseum.ac.uk/education/asia/diploma.html

The British Museum's primary purpose is to illuminate world cultures. Through Education the Museum seeks to inspire and support formal and informal learning at all levels.